

Urswick Parish

Nature's hand blessed this parish with a beauty and character which few can rival.

Good fortune then favoured us with forebears whose caring hand – and for a few, with the ultimate sacrifice –
passed on to us the splendour
that we now share.

Let us not be found wanting in our respect for what those who went before have left behind,
or in our duty to those who will succeed us.
May they in their turn revere it
as a home, which compels their affection, and is worthy of their care.

1 Introduction

Located to the east of the A590 trunk road on the Furness Peninsula in Cumbria, the border of Urswick Parish is 1.7 miles south of Ulverston town centre and 3.4 miles north of Barrow in Furness town centre. The parish covers 1691 hectares and has a population of around 1500 people who predominantly live in one of its four villages: Bardsea, Great Urswick, Little Urswick, and Stainton with Adgarley. The rural character of the parish is further enhanced by the tiny hamlets of Beckside, Edgehill, Far Mountbarrow, Hallier How, Hawkfield, Holme Bank, Mascalles, Skeldon Moor, Skells Lodge and Woodhead.

The parish is blessed throughout with a rural beauty which is distinct to this area. This includes a superb coastline providing access to the broad expanse of sand and the dangerous tidal waters of Morecambe Bay, across which travellers-of-old once ventured on foot and by stagecoach to reach the peninsula. The high ground of the parish is Birkrigg Common (136 m), which affords extensive views of the Lake District Fells to the North; the Howgill Fells and Pennines to the East across Morecambe Bay; on clear days, the Welsh mountains to the South; and the Isle of Man to the West. The entire parish has retained its rural character and has survived unspoilt, despite the extensive haematite mining which took place in the adjoining area around Lindal in Furness in the 19th century. The mineral extraction there resulted in the rapid growth of a former fishing hamlet at the southern most point of the mainland peninsula to become Barrow in Furness, the marine industrial town, now with a population of around 72,000. Prior to the building of the dock facilities at Barrow in Furness, some of the haematite ore was shipped from a limestone jetty, now in ruins, located within the parish at Wadhead Scar, Bardsea.

The parish is founded on Carboniferous Limestone which has been sculpted by glaciers moving south from the Coniston Fells stripping and exposing attractive outcrops in many places. When they retreated and melted, those same glaciers deposited a rich till and provided the basis for the fertile soil on which the parish's modern agriculture now thrives.

Stone axes, originating from the Lake District fells, bear testimony to human occupation across the parish dating back to Neolithic times. An Iron Age presence is marked by the stone circles, and bank and ditch structures still to be seen across the parish. Archaeological research is currently taking place to validate the possible presence of a large and very early Christian monastic settlement, centred in the vicinity of Urswick Parish Church, which itself dates back more than 1000 years. Nearby excavations are believed to relate to an early Roman presence and those involved in this work are hopeful of being able to maintain a programme of excavations in the parish into the foreseeable future, believing the area to be of high archaeological significance.

Notwithstanding the remoteness of the peninsular setting, a large Cistercian monastery was established in 1147, 1.5 miles to the west of the parish boundary in 'the vale of deadly nightshade' and this exercised extensive control over the surrounding area until the dissolution in 1537. In 1585, Little Urswick became the location for Urswick Grammar School. This former Free School has a charter, still in existence, signed by Queen Elizabeth I. From the mid-1940s, the same school acted as the Junior School for the local villages and was graced by a visit from Queen Elizabeth II in May 1985 to celebrate its 400th anniversary. In 1994 a new school was opened by Cumbria County Council, ending 409 years of continuous use and resulting in a change from the ancient name of Urswick Grammar School to Low Furness Church of England Primary School. As a larger building, and as implied by its name, the new school serves an area of the Furness Peninsular stretching beyond the parish boundary.

Its long history, unique landscape and outstanding beauty provides a quality of life which is treasured by those privileged to live in the parish. These are qualities which parishioners seek to preserve, cherishing the fulfilment it brings to their lives, and concerned that the lives of future generations may be likewise enhanced. This inaugural Parish Plan is one small step towards that end, both in establishing an action programme relating to short term improvements, and in making a positive and forceful statement declaring the parish's wish to be cared for and preserved by outside authorities.

2 Spiritual Expression and Development

Perhaps the earliest remaining evidence of spirituality in the parish is the Bronze Age (2500 – 2000 BC) circle of standing stones on Birkrigg Common overlooking Bardsea and Morecambe Bay, known locally as the Druid's Circle or Druid's Temple.

Of less certain, but possible spiritual significance, is the large Priapus Stone now languishing, stripped of the symbolism of its vital upstanding form, at the base of a roadside wall, the casualty of 'development' controlled by distal authorities. This former centrepiece of village fertility rituals, attributed to origins in ancient times, was still smeared with butter and dye, and decorated with bright cloth and flowers, at summer celebrations in Urswick within living memory. Surely, such an ignoble end is unbecoming this former emblematic stimulant of the passions of our village ancestors, and of their hopes and thanks for their crops.

In modern times, the Parish has three places of Christian communion.

The church of St. Mary and St. Michael at Urswick is the oldest, dating back at least 1000 years, with accumulating evidence to suggest that it may have succeeded a proximal monastic settlement. The church contains a rare fragment of an Anglo-Saxon cross which was found beneath plaster in the church wall in 1911. The ancient and now rare ceremony of Rushbearing is still retained as an annual event. Rushes from the tarn are carried in procession through the two Urswick villages before being scattered on the church floor at a service dedicated for that purpose.

In Bardsea, the imposing skyline church of Holy Trinity was consecrated in 1853 and in addition to providing a place of worship for the local community, it came with a graveyard for their final resting place. Prior to this, the dead were carried over Birkrigg Common for burial at the Parish Church in Urswick.

The third place of worship in the Parish is known to the villagers of Great Urswick as, 'the Chapel'. The congregation at this church are members of the United Reform Church. Built by village members of the Church of Christ in about 1920, it is a simple timber framed structure clad in corrugated sheet, but inside there are fine wood carvings by the late Thomas Ashburner. It is capable of accommodating a congregation of approximately sixty worshippers.

The two Urswick churches work in close cooperation, operating a rota of where services will be held on each Sunday during the month. An annual Songs of Praise service is held in the village, at which Dalton in Furness Town Band provides the accompanying music. In fine weather, the United Reform Church hosts this service on their lawn adjoining the tarn, whilst in wet weather the Parish Church plays host – surely a wonderful example of inter-denominational cooperation and Christian asset management.

4 Educating the Junior Citizens of the Parish

Low Furness Church of England Primary School is located between the two villages of Great and Little Urswick. The school provides education through to age eleven when children move to secondary level education. Children may optionally enter the afternoons only Nursery section of the school in the term following their third birthday, moving on to become part of the full time Reception year following their fourth birthday. The school's excellent prospectus includes a comprehensive declaration of its aims, ethos and values. These include, 'The children are made aware of the responsibilities of being part of a community. They are encouraged to be involved in the local community and to appreciate the inter-dependence of our community and the world beyond'. What better than that this might be considered appropriate to the community as a whole?

The school employs a staff of thirteen including the Head teacher and three other teachers.

The Governing Body is made up of fourteen members and is Chaired by the vicar of St. Mary and St. Michael, Urswick Parish Church, which is located close to the school.

The school had 84 pupils at the beginning of the 2005-6 school year.

Secondary education for the parish is provided at Ulverston Victoria High School, to where pupils are bussed from all of the villages in the parish.

5 Employment in the Parish

The breakdown of employment within the parish is as follows, noting that these do not include one person self employed businesses and that jobs are not all taken by residents of the parish:

Urswick Parish Plan

As a rural community, there is no major industrial employer in Urswick Parish.

Agriculture – With the exception of small areas of woodland, the quarry at Stainton with Adgarley and the land occupied by Ulverston Golf Club, the entire parish outside of its four villages, is under agriculture. Dairy, beef and sheep farming are dominant, with only small areas producing cereals or arable crops.

Chemicals – Kingfisher Chemicals Ltd. are located on the small industrial estate at Bardsea where dust free recycled paper is manufactured for use in animal bedding.

Concrete Products – Located within Stainton Quarry, the block production plant of Neil Price Ltd. produces dense solid building blocks for the Furness and South Lakes areas. The plant is semi automatic with modern batching and mixing facilities and can produce 40,000 blocks per week.

Engineering – Driveline Engineering Ltd., are transmission engineers located at Harbarrow Farm, Stainton with Adgarley.

Farriery – South Lakes Farriery Practice is located at the Beckside Forge where shoes are hand made to support the mobile general, remedial and surgical shoeing service.

Playground Products – Abacus Playgrounds Ltd. operate from the Bardsea industrial estate and are involved in the installation of playground safety surfaces and equipment.

Pubs and Catering – Over recent years there has been a decline in the number of pubs in the parish, Little Urswick now being 'dry'. However, the number of facilities offering restaurant services has expanded as car ownership and disposable incomes have increased.

Ready Mix Concrete – This industry operates on land leased within Stainton Quarry, using modern high technology plant which produces up to 18000 cubic metres of concrete per year. It uses sand from nearby Roose and limestone aggregate from Stainton Quarry. The output from the plant is used as far away as South Lakeland and the southern region of West Cumbria. A modern exit from the quarry to the west of Stainton with Adgarley makes it unnecessary for associated commercial traffic to travel through the villages of the parish.

Retirement Home – Conishead Grange Retirement Home, Bardsea, offers residential care for 17 residents in a Victorian house set in 3 acres of grounds overlooking Morecambe Bay.

Stainton Quarry – The quarry is made up of two originally separate limestone quarries, Crown Quarry and Devonshire Quarry, which have been worked for over a century. The area now worked is the former Crown Quarry where the Park Limestone Formation is quarried. The high chemical purity of this strata has enabled an export market to be developed, amounting to around 45% of the quarry's quarter million tonne annual output. This ships through the dock facilities at Barrow in Furness to Sweden where it is processed for paper making, burnt lime, the manufacture of acetylene gas, and toothpaste. Of the balance of production, 30% is used as an aggregate in concrete and 25% for road bases. The Devonshire Quarry section is in the Urswick Limestone Formation, a strata of lower chemical purity immediately above the Park Limestone Formation. Both of these strata may be seen on Birkrigg Common. The quarry occupies 75 hectares and existing removal licences are expected to enable the quarry to operate for at least the next eighty years.

Stonework and Landscaping – A revival of awareness of the distinct character in the vernacular building methods of the district has resulted in demand for those skilled in the crafts of dry-stone construction, associated groundwork and landscaping. Two small but growing businesses have emerged in the parish which have not only created employment, but also contributed towards uplifting the aesthetic of the district by their labours.

Subsea Systems – Located at Harbarrow Farm, Stainton with Adgarley, Link Subsea Ltd. are in the business of underwater connectors and diver communication systems.

6 Services in the Parish

Garage and Petrol Station – Longrigg Service Station, unobtrusively located in a long disused limestone quarry at the edge of Little Urswick, provides repair, tyre replacement and MOT services to the motoring public, together with a two pump petrol and diesel filling service.

Post Offices – In Bardsea, the village Post Office opens one and a half days each week. Great Urswick Post Office is a module within the village shop and opens Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. plus Saturday until noon. Stainton with Adgarley and Little Urswick are without Post Offices, notwithstanding that Little Urswick had this service in former years.

Public Transport – A bus service, financed and subsidised by Cumbria County Council, and operated by Stagecoach, is provided on separate routes between Ulverston and Barrow in Furness passing through all the villages of the parish. Both services operate Monday to Saturday only. Route 10 services pass through Great Urswick, Little Urswick and Stainton with Adgarley, making nine journeys in the direction of Barrow each day and ten in the direction of Ulverston. Route 11 services pass through Bardsea, making ten return journeys each day. Services on both routes commence at approximately 07:00 each day and the last service commences at 20:00. Data provided by Cumbria County Council has indicated how little the services are actually used over their entire route, particularly at each end of the day. Passenger trends are in decline. A once weekly, free return bus service, also operated by Stagecoach, is provided to all villages in the parish by Booths Supermarket in Ulverston. This is much used and provides for a social gathering as well as facilitating shopping for the elderly, who are grateful for the service.

Shops – The only shop within the parish is located in Great Urswick. It opens 7.30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday to Saturday and 7.30 a.m. to noon on Sundays. Those who rely on public transport are otherwise largely dependent on shops in either Ulverston or Barrow in Furness.

7 Parish Amenities

Birkrigg Common – The bracken covered high ground of the parish, constantly grazed by the sheep of adjoining landowners, provides numerous natural grass pathways which are regularly used by both serious walkers and by those who simply enjoy a leisurely stroll with a superb vista in all directions.

Coast – The coastal strip within Urswick Parish is particularly attractive and popular with walkers, sun lovers and the very many who just enjoy parking their cars and taking in the magnificent and ever changing views across Morecambe Bay. The interesting geological feature of Wadhead Scar, sadly being eroded by storm tides and the weather, bears testimony to the glacial processes which shaped the parish.

Footpaths – The parish is criss-crossed by an extensive network of public footpaths and some bridleways. Many of these originate in ancient times, still more being the routes followed by miners as they walked to and from their arduous work in the haematite mines around Lindal in Furness.

Ulverston Golf Club – Urswick Parish has been the home of this club since 1910. The club is just to the north of Bardsea village and occupies a 77 hectare parkland location which affords magnificent views over the surrounding countryside and Morecambe Bay. The 71 par competition course is 5670 metres in length and may be examined hole by hole at <http://ulverstongolf.dyndns.biz/course.asp>

Urswick Tarn – The 5.7 hectare tarn, of glacial origin, around which Great Urswick is built, provides an outstanding focal point for the village. The tarn is a rich ecological treasure chest sustained by pure waters from aquifers draining from the surrounding limestone high ground. In former years, when the village communities of the district enjoyed a sustained continuity far greater than in modern time, the residents of Urswick were referred to as Ossick Coots due to the large population of coots on the tarn. The tarn is the subject of an ancient legend which speaks of an old village long lost beneath its depths, the consequence of a gigantic flood brought on by the '... slanderous speech [of village women], from tongues that spat out venom black as night, poisoned the days, tattler and gadabouts, casting an evil eye on all'.

Village Halls – The parish is well provided for with function halls. At Bardsea, the newly refurbished Malt Kiln, originating from an 1829 building which formed part of the Well Wood estate, provides excellent facilities for the villagers. Also in Bardsea are the facilities of the old School Room. Urswick has the facilities of both the Recreation Hall, and the Parish Room, formerly officially and still affectionately known as the Sunday School. Urswick Recreation Hall was built in 1929 by the villagers themselves, on land donated by a Little Urswick farmer. They purchased second hand curved bricks from the demolished high chimney at Lowfield Mine, Lindal in Furness for £1.12 per thousand, transported them to Urswick and then cleaned the bricks prior to constructing the hall. Stainton with Adgarley is served by its own Recreation Hall. Originally constructed in 1902 as Stainton Congregational Church, it was sold to Trustees in 1953. All of these facilities in the parish are extensively used and play a key part in enabling the communal activities of the parish to flourish.

8 Community Groups and Associations

The parish community appears to be very active when gauged by the number of fraternal groups which meet. Many sections of the community are well served should they wish to avail of what is on offer, but for some, particularly teenagers and young adults, there are few opportunities for any form of structured socialising with their peers.

Badminton – Urswick Badminton Club has been in existence for over 60 years, meeting weekly throughout the winter in Urswick Recreation Hall. Membership spans early teens to those whose tenacity now triumphs over judgement. Fun and exercise are the theme of club nights, but the club also has a fine record in competition in both the Ulverston Badminton League and the Barrow Badminton League.

Girlguiding – Both Rainbows (aged 5-7) and Brownies (aged 7-10) meet weekly in Urswick. The Rainbows, with 15 girls, commenced in 2005, but the Brownies have been associated with Urswick since at least the 1940s. The present Brownie Pack has been meeting continuously since 1977 and currently has 18 members. Each Pack is led by 3 adults plus an older former member who is following the leadership scheme operated by the Guide Association.

Hidden Light – Low Furness – This Association has the objectives of:

1. Working sensitively in a partnership between church and community, local tourism initiatives and rural businesses in promoting Low Furness and its unique nature.
2. Bringing long-term, sustainable economic benefits and to stimulate local opportunities in Low Furness through programmes and events which reveal the 'hidden gems' and rich and varied history of the area.
3. Operating for the general benefit of the Low Furness community.
4. Maintaining links with other Associations and like-minded bodies.

Little Urswick Village Green Committee – This Committee was established in 2004 with the singular objective of maintaining the village green in Little Urswick, formally known to the locals as the School Green, in accordance with a constitution approved and periodically reviewed by Urswick Parish Council.

Saturday Morning "Pop Inn" – This weekly event is held in the Sunday School at Urswick and provides a meeting place for villagers and also generates funds for the upkeep of that building. A genial chat is helped along by what is rumoured to be the best baking on the peninsular and a cup of tea or coffee

Stainton Friendship Club – This popular club, much enjoyed by the senior citizens, has around 50 members from the surrounding villages. They meet monthly and are served a light lunch followed by entertainment of some form, most commonly a speaker. Outings are organised during the year and an annual holiday is arranged. Even trips 'abroad' have taken place in the past when their destination was the Isle of Man.

The Tarn Supper Club – Formed in 1995 and with around twenty members, this club has the objective of promoting members' social and intellectual well-being through Christian companionship and discussion, having in mind the Club's original foundation as a society for male members of Furness churches.

Urswick Line Dancers – Reputed to be the social event of the parish, this group has been meeting on a weekly basis since April 2002 and goes from strength to strength. The frequent Party Evenings and Pie and Peas Evenings add to the conviviality of this energetic group, whose Christmas Party is so highly rated that Father Christmas always makes a special journey to attend.

Urswick Parent and Toddler Group – This group caters for babies and children up to 4 years old and is regularly attended by 10 to 15 parents for the two hour weekly meetings. Operating under the flagship of Home-Start, the group is run by local volunteers and provides an opportunity for both children and parents to socialise.

Urswick Playground Association – Occupying land owned by the Association, this registered charity aims to provide and maintain a playground primarily for the children of Great Urswick and Little Urswick. In 2003 the majority of equipment was declared unsafe and was subsequently removed. Since that time a major fundraising campaign has generated over £17,000, but considerably more is still required.

Urswick Tarn Association – The tarn is owned by Urswick Parish Council which decided to lease it to a dedicated Association back in 1968. The tarn is managed by the Association under the terms of its lease and in accordance with its own constitution which is approved by the Parish Council. It manages the fishing on the tarn via a permit system and similarly regulates the use of boats. Caring for the natural environment in and around the tarn is a time consuming task for the dedicated band of volunteers who regularly commit their time and energy. The result of this effort is a pristine gem of aquatic ecology, of which the parish is justifiably proud.

Women's Institute – The parish has two very active Women's Institute groups. The Bardsea WI was formed 51 years ago and has a membership of 33. The Urswick WI was founded in 1960 and has 54 members. The groups meet monthly in their respective village halls where the balance between business and companionship is nurtured and sustained by an occasional cup of tea.

9 Surveys of Parish Residents' Concerns and Aspirations

The surveying of parishioners' concerns and aspirations for the future of the parish commenced in 2003 when the Parish Council circulated a questionnaire to every household seeking their opinion on a wide range of topics concerning the parish. The results of this survey were consolidated for the Parish Council who proceeded in 2004 to form a Steering Committee for compiling a Parish Plan. The various interest groups and associations operating within the parish were invited to nominate a member to join this Steering Committee and to attend an introductory meeting to learn about the reasons for creating a Parish Plan and what the task would involve.

A Steering Committee, consisting of 11 members, held its inaugural meeting in June 2004 and has met on a monthly basis since that time. The Committee inherited the results of the questionnaire previously processed by the Parish Council and decided to solicit an unconstrained input from all households. In January 2005 a circular was distributed inviting comment on any topic of relevance to an Urswick Parish Plan. The combined input from the two surveys was analysed and a slide presentation prepared based on the main issues that had come to the fore. The presentation of this material took place in early June 2005 at separate public meetings at Bardsea, Great and Little Urswick, and at Stainton with Adgarley. The material presented was common in all locations and provided a parish wide profile of the findings from the surveys and the items which the Steering Committee were proposing to take forward to the Parish Plan. Excellent feedback was received at all of the meetings and some additional items were added to the action programme as a consequence of this further input.

It should be noted that the Steering Committee were extremely impressed by the excellent and mature input that they received from the children of Low Furness Church of England Primary School. It is heartening to know that in future years the Parish will be in the hands of such responsible and caring citizens.

This inaugural Parish Plan represents the outcome of this work. It focuses on those items which appeared from the surveys and public meetings to identify with the largest number of respondents and attendees. The realistic availability of resources to tackle the programme of work also influenced where a line was drawn under what would be included. Additional items were, of course, brought to the attention of the Committee and whilst they do not appear in this Plan document, every one, without exception, has been brought to the attention of the Parish Council.

The following sections document the concerns and aspirations of the residents of Urswick Parish and provides current best estimates of timescales and methodologies for advancing each item. In some instances other authorities are required to play their part in enabling progress to be made. The Steering Committee trusts that their positive participation will be forthcoming.

Finally, it is noted that during the evolution of this plan, it has proven difficult to retain confidence that funding support would endure from the various, initially supportive, authorities. This has added to the task and as work proceeds to the next stage, and a Village Design Statement is prepared as a precursor for obtaining Supplementary Planning Guidance status, it is hoped that a more stable funding environment will emerge.

It is estimated that the UK dog population produces 1,000 tonnes of faeces every day. Dog owners in Urswick Parish certainly contribute their share, but most seriously, a small number don't realise that the faeces which they fail to collect &amp; dispose of properly carry harmful infections. Human toxocariasis results from the contamination of soil &amp; sand with the eggs of the worm parasite. Children are particularly vulnerable, and most commonly, it is disorders of the eye which are reported, but other conditions, including epileptic fits are being attributed to this source of infection. Pregnant women are also susceptible &amp; carry the risk of then passing the infection to their foetus.

Quoting from a newspaper from the early 1900s when the axing, due to age & decay, of a magnificent old sycamore in Little Urswick was in the news: "At one time, & easily within living memory, the valley in which Great Urswick & Little Urswick stand, was noted for its trees, & the Hawkfield & Bolton Manor estates grew many a fine oak & beech. The valley was lovely when the trees were in full leaf, but its glories have gradually departed until now only a few of the trees remain". Sadly, the process of depletion without replanting has continued throughout current living memory.
